More Evidence of Trouble for Lincoln

Raleigh, N.C. – The evidence continues to mount that Blanche Lincoln will have a tough fight for reelection in 2010. A new survey of voters in Arkansas' 2nd Congressional District, where Barack Obama had his best performance in the state last year, finds her with just a 27% approval rating.

Lincoln's numbers are well behind those of Obama, who has a 41% approval in the district, and Congressman Vic Snyder who comes in at 42%.

It's nothing new that Lincoln is not well loved by Republicans (13% approval) or independents (19%). But she seems to have lost a lot of support within her own party as well, with only 43% of Democrats giving her good marks and 37% disapproving.

In hypothetical contests against some potential GOP opponents Lincoln trails Gilbert Baker 43-38 and Stanley Reed 42-39. Those deficits come despite the fact that her Republican foes are virtually anonymous, with 67% holding no opinion of Baker and 78% saying the same of Reed.

Lincoln has a difficult conundrum- 30% of Democrats think she's too conservative, an indication that she may need to move left to win back her base. At the same time 49% of independents think she's too liberal. She's stuck between a rock and a hard place in figuring out what she needs to do to improve her numbers.

"Blanche Lincoln may be the most endangered Democratic Senator in the country for 2010," said Dean Debnam, President of Public Policy Polling. "It's typical right now for independents to lean heavily toward the GOP but what sets Lincoln apart from other vulnerable Democrats is her lack of popularity within her own party."

PPP surveyed 400 Arkansas-2 voters from November 11th to 13th. The survey's margin of error is +/-4.9%. Other factors, such as refusal to be interviewed and weighting, may introduce additional error that is more difficult to quantify.

Complete results are attached and can be found at www.publicpolicypolling.com.
